

Youth Community Councils

For youth, by youth.

Coast Capital's Youth Community Councils serve our primary trade areas: Metro Vancouver, Fraser Valley & Okanagan and Vancouver Island, with a unique role of making investment recommendations for our Community Investment Grants program.

Each of the three Youth Community Councils is comprised of eight emerging young leaders between the ages of 18 and 30. Four representatives are from the local community and four are Coast Capital Savings' employees. Through this diverse group of young leaders, we deliver on our for youth, by youth funding approach.

Community groups who apply for a Community Investment Grant for Youth know their grant applications are being reviewed by dedicated young people who have a strong understanding of those they're trying to support. And young leaders gain invaluable experience providing great input and a youth perspective to their investment decisions.

Responsibilities

- Commit to a minimum 1-year volunteer term, January to December, renewable up to a total of three years
- Meet as a council up to five times a year
- Review grant applications in advance of council meetings
- Meet as a council to discuss grant applications and to make recommendations for allocations of community investment funds
- Represent Coast Capital Savings at community event